Cookie Statement

Types of cookies and similar technologies

Cookies

Cookies are small pieces of text sent as files to your computer or mobile device when you visit most websites. Cookies may be delivered by us (first party cookies) or delivered by a third-party partner (third-party cookies). Cookies are either session cookies or persistent cookies. Session cookies enable sites to recognize and link the actions of a user during a browsing session and expire at the end of each session. Persistent cookies help us recognize you as an existing user and these cookies are stored on your system or device until they expire, although you can delete them before the expiration date.

Other similar technologies

- Web beacons, gifs, and clear gifs are tiny graphics, each with a unique identifier that are embedded invisibly on sites and in emails. Web beacons allow us to know if a certain page was visited or if ad banners on our sites and other sites are effective. We also use web beacons in our HTML-based emails to let us know whether our emails have been opened by recipients, which helps us to gauge the effectiveness of certain communications.
- Pixels are small objects embedded into a web page that are not visible to the user. We use pixels to deliver cookies to your computer, monitor the activity on our site, and deliver online advertising.
- Tags are small pieces of HTML code that tell your browser to request certain content generated by an ad server. We use tags to show you relevant advertising.
- Scripts are pieces of JavaScript code that launch automatically when certain webpages load, to determine whether users view associated advertisements.
- Local Storage Objects, such as HTML 5, are used to store content and preferences. Third parties with whom we partner to provide certain features on our site to display advertising based upon your web browsing activity use Local Storage Objects to collect and store information.
- Software Development Kits (“SDKs”) are a set of tools and software components embedded on our site, if applicable. We use SDKs to collect and share information about user devices, track events and analyze activity on our site, and generate unique identifiers.

All of the technologies described above will be collectively referred to in this Cookie Statement as “cookies”.
